

Stoking the Fire: Maintaining Courage and Hope for the Work of Justice

"Can one be passionate about the just, the ideal, the sublime and the holy, and yet commit no labour to its cause? . . . The gospel of light is the crossroads of indolence or inaction. Be ignited or be gone." (Poet Mary Oliver)

As Christians, we know that social justice is not an option but we also know it is a hard sell. Workers in the field of social action oft-times find themselves overwhelmed, alone and dis-heartened. Parishes often find themselves struggling to maintain an active and committed core of volunteers who are passionate about working on social issues.

How might we maintain our courage and hope in the face of so many demands and so much apathy? How do we move past our own disillusionment, weariness or cynicism? What are the sources that might feed us, nurture us and keep us ignited and on fire?

Join us for an evening designed to support, affirm and inspire you in your justice work. Meet others like yourself who are concerned and caring justice people. Come and stoke the fire in your heart.
